

UKCoRR

UK Council of Research Repositories

Developing an Experience-Led Association for Repository Staff

SHERPA Plus is pleased to announce the public launch of UKCoRR - the UK Council of Research Repositories; which will hold its inaugural meeting in Nottingham on Monday, May 21st, 2007.

UKCoRR will be an independent professional body to allow repository managers to share experiences and discuss issues of common concern. It will give repository managers a group voice in national discussions and policy development.

Part of the inaugural meeting in Nottingham will be discussion about the future direction of role of UKCoRR and what repository managers as a professional community would like to get from the group.

We would like to invite all UK-based research repository administrators to come to the meeting to discuss issues relating to managing their repositories and their roles.

Inaugural Meeting:
University of Nottingham
